The proposed redistribution of the seat of Corangamite makes sense in terms of recognising the increasing numbers of non rural residents in the new electorate & enabling a more natural community of interests ( by the new areas to the north and moving Colac and surrounds to Wannon) to be included in the new seat with the AEC-suggested name of Cox.

However I agree with Sarah Henderson that the name(not the person) has unfortunate connotations and that the new seat be named Barrabool after the original indigenous settlers or, if a woman's name is thought more appropriate, that McKillop( after Sister Mary) or Bullwinkel (after WW2 heroine Sister Vivienne) be considered
