

Suggestion 11

Rose-Mary Crimp

1 page

I think as electoral boundaries are being redrawn , it is a great opportunity to rename electorates to reflect our diverse and inclusive communities. Only two of the 15 (13%) electorates are named after a woman , women certainly make up more than 13% of our population. None of the electorates are named after an Indigenous Australian, which reflects poorly on inclusivity. So my suggestion is that we take this opportunity to honour women and Indigenous Australians who have contributed to our society.