Dear AEC,

I am contacting you in response to your announcement of a draft plan to abolish the federal seat of North Sydney. Having lived in Crows Nest for 12 years and worked in the business district of North Sydney at McMahon's Point, it is clear that the residential and business perspectives of both these areas do not align with the Warringah council they would be absorbed into.

While Crows Nest is a quickly developing neighbourhood with a strong need for public transport and a soon to be open metro station, Warringah council has historically opposed major public transport developments and remains hostile to large population growth.

The current federal seat of North Sydney represents a large population in a densely populated urban area that is distinct from the LGAs that are intended to absorb it.

I strongly advise that this matter is reconsidered.

Sincerely yours,

Hannah Rady
